

Nicole Calegari

"Hello, my name is Nicole, and I am really excited to be interning this year at the CDRC. I am a 4th year at Cal Poly, where I am studying Psychology and Child Development. Before living in SLO, I was living in the East Bay, and although I do miss home, I am grateful to be living in a beautiful and supportive community! For fun, I like to read and paint, or go to the beach. I love animals, especially dogs since they offer lots of love! I am very playful with kids, and I love to encourage them to try new things. In the future I hope to become a Play Therapist. I am grateful and excited to join the CDRC family and look forward to working with these amazing kids!"
