

Suzanna Ramzi

Hi! My name is Suzanna Ramzi and I'm a fourth-year student at Cal Poly. As a Child Development major and Psychology minor, there's nothing more I love than working with children and families, so I'm looking forward to a new experience here at the CDRC. In my free time, I enjoy staying active and finding new hiking trails around the San Luis Obispo area. Originally from sunny San Diego, my time spent here in SLO has given me everything it has to offer. With a close-knit community and beautiful environment, I have loved every minute of my college experience. After graduating this Spring, I hope to continue pursuing my passion in child development by moving towards a career in social work. I look forward to meeting you!
